AWARD GOES TO

Nathan Koshman

Rock Paper Scissor

Minute To Win It

- Some are individual tasks – nominate someone from your table to compete
- Some tasks are for everyone to compete together at the table
- Individual competitors must change (everyone to share in the fun!!!)

Oh Christmas Tree

In this challenge, a contestant will use 36 plastic cups to erect a stumpless Christmas tree structure (a pyramid).

Once built, the player will deconstruct it by sliding the cups down diagonally creating a single stack.

Face the Gingerbread Man

* This Christmas, when you put out cookies for Santa, you may as well leave him the instructions to this game.

Following in the footsteps of a Minute to Win It classic, every contestant must move a gingerbread man from the forehead to the mouth using only the muscles of the face.

Christmas Nutcracker

Wondering why Santa left a candy cane and 8 hexagonal nuts in your stocking this year?

So you can play this holiday challenge of course!

Sliding nuts off a candy cane one at a time, a contestant must build an eight story tower on the table.

Christmas Ball

In this challenge, a contestant must use a gift wrapped box as a fan to propel a holiday ornament across the floor and into the predetermined zone.

Fan too fast and the ornament may roll into a 'no play' area (such as under the tables).

If the ornament enters such area, the ornament may be retrieved and placed back in starting position (clock remains ticking)

Frosty The Snowman

Enjoy the winter wonderland? Let's build a snowman.

In this challenge all contestants will stack as many mini marshmallows without having them fall over.
